Myth: Asian SEO playbooks work across Africa.

Reality: Africa requires localized strategies for distinct markets like Nigeria, Kenya, Ghana and South Africa, not a single blanket approach.

Myth: PAGCOR experience covers African regulatory needs.

Reality: African compliance involves entirely different local regulators such as NLRC, BCLB and GRA that demand local adaptation.

Myth: One English page fits all English speakers.

Reality: While English is used in business, local languages, slang, and cultural nuances across regions mean one page fails to convert.

Myth: Payment integrations are uniform across regions.

Reality: Africa relies heavily on mobile money and diverse local bank transfers that differ completely from Asian payment infrastructures.

Myth: Remote execution requires physical local offices.

Reality: Having worked remotely with teams globally from Lagos, deep local execution through a trusted team bridges the gap effectively.
